US Arrests Yankel Rosenthal, President of Honduras Soccer Club (/news-analysis/us-arrests-yankel-rosenthal-president-of-popular-soccer-club)

Written by Steven Dudley Wednesday, 07 October 2015

Yankel Rosenthal, president of Marathon soccer club

United States authorities arrested Yankel Rosenthal, a former government minister and president of the Honduras (http://www.insightcrime.org/honduras-organized-crime-news) soccer club Marathon, which is owned by one of Honduras' wealthiest and politically connected families.

Rosenthal was detained October 6, when he arrived in Miami from San Pedro Sula, the Honduras presidency said in a statement (http://www.presidencia.gob.hn/?p=7732).

"The Government of Honduras (http://www.insightcrime.org/honduras-organized-crime-news) was informed by the US Diplomatic Mission in Tegucigalpa of the capture of the Honduran citizen Yankel Rosenthal," the statement reads.

The charges are not yet clear. In its statement, the presidency said Rosenthal faces an arraignment in a US courtroom October 7, "to respond to the charges against him."

*UPDATE: A US indictment made public on October 7

(http://www.reuters.com/article/2015/10/07/us-usa-honduras-soccer-crime-idUSKCN0S125620151007) charges Yankel Rosenthal and other members of the Rosenthal family with money laundering (http://www.insightcrime.org/component/tags/tag/22-money-laundering). See InSight Crime's full story here (/news-analysis/us-releases-indictment-against-honduras-elite). See interview with Jaime Rosenthal about his relations with criminal group Cachiros (http://www.insightcrime.org/honduras-organized-crime-news/cachiros) here (/news-analysis/why-elites-do-business-with-criminals-in-honduras).

There was no additional information on the arrest from either the United States Embassy in Honduras (http://www.insightcrime.org/honduras-organized-crime-news) or the US Justice Department in Washington, and a search through the US court system database did not reveal a pending indictment against Rosenthal.

Up until June, Rosenthal headed the Ministry of Investment (http://www.elheraldo.hn/sucesos/887974-219/trasciende-detención-del-empresario-yankel-rosenthal). He is currently the president of Marathon, Honduras' perennial championship soccer club, which is owned by the Rosenthal family.

SEE ALSO: Coverage of Elites and Organized Crime (/component/tags/tag/166-elites-and-organized-crime)

The Rosenthal family business is led by Yankel Rosenthal's uncle, Jaime Rosenthal Oliva, a former vice president of Honduras (<http://www.insightcrime.org/honduras-organized-crime-news>) in the 1980s and the head of the Grupo Continental, or Continental Group, one of Honduras most powerful economic conglomerates (<http://www.laprensa.hn/economia/negocios/717678-98/los-millonarios-hondureños-camino-a-ranking-de-forbes>).

The Continental Group has a vast portfolio, which includes everything from banks to telecommunications, meat packing plants to media. Jaime Rosenthal's children and relatives help him run his empire, which he manages from a relatively humble office building in an old mall in San Pedro Sula.

The Rosenthal family is also one of the most important political families in Honduras (<http://www.insightcrime.org/honduras-organized-crime-news>) with a strong voice in the country's chief opposition Liberal Party. Jaime Rosenthal's son, Yani, worked in the government of Mel Zelaya and ran unsuccessfully for president in the last elections.

InSight Crime Analysis

The Rosenthal family has been under scrutiny for its potential ties to criminal money for years.

The Honduran government's recent seizures of criminal groups' bank accounts (</news-briefs/800m-cachiros-seizure-end-of-phase-one-honduras-police>), the extradition of drug trafficking suspects (</news-briefs/nearly-half-of-the-honduran-traffickers-wanted-by-us-now-in-custody>) to the United States, and the voluntary handover of some key criminals (</news-analysis/alleged-head-of-honduras-drug-cartel-in-us-custody>) to US authorities earlier this year may have accelerated the timetable for a Rosenthal indictment.

Most notable among these criminal groups was the Cachiros (<http://www.insightcrime.org/honduras-organized-crime-news/cachiros>). Led by the Rivera Maradiaga family, the Cachiros (<http://www.insightcrime.org/honduras-organized-crime-news/cachiros>) transported hundreds of tons of cocaine across the isthmus for a decade before being indicted by the United States government and getting numerous properties and bank accounts seized (</news-analysis/us-treasury-names-names-sort-of-in-honduras-case>) by the Honduran government beginning in 2013.

SEE ALSO: Cachiros Profile (</honduras-organized-crime-news/cachiros-profile>)

At least two of the Rivera Maradiaga brothers turned themselves in to US authorities (</news-analysis/alleged-head-of-honduras-drug-cartel-in-us-custody>) in January of this year and are thought to be cooperating with US prosecutors.

The dominos may already be falling. In May, Fabio Lobo, the son of the former Honduran President Porfirio Lobo, was arrested in Haiti (</news-briefs/son-of-honduras-ex-president-arrested-for-drug-trafficking>) for crimes connected to the Cachiros' operations.

Like the Fabio Lobo case, there was no indication that Yankel Rosenthal was under investigation. Before he traveled to Miami, the president of Marathon gave an extensive interview to La Prensa (<http://www.laprensa.hn/deportes/887995-410/olimpia-debe-pagar-derechos-de-formación-de-anthony-lozano>) in Honduras

(<http://www.insightcrime.org/honduras-organized-crime-news>) during which he spoke of the Marathon soccer club's financial difficulties in recent years and the sensation that the club was too dependent on him.

"I feel alone," he told La Prensa. "We are just passengers and one day we won't be there. If they get used to living off of me, then I am worried."

Marathon has not come under public scrutiny for ties to criminal groups, but Real Sociedad, the Tocoa-based club was supported by the Rivera Maradiaga family, Honduran intelligence sources told InSight Crime.

The Continental Group's bank, Continental Bank, advertised with Real Sociedad (see photo below), but when InSight Crime published this in a story (</news-analysis/how-a-good-soccer-team-gives-criminals-space-to-operate>) about soccer clubs and criminal groups in Central America, Jaime Rosenthal vehemently defended the group's business practices.

"All the sponsors that put their logo in the uniform are big companies and others since TV stations transmit all the games, putting the logo in the uniform is a very important advertising spot and very cheap because it has a large quantity of viewers," Rosenthal wrote in an email. (See full email here (</news-analysis/how-a-good-soccer-team-gives-criminals-space-to-operate>).)

"Certainly your article damages our image and it is causing problems to us. We have been in business in Honduras (</component/tags/tag/66-honduras>) for more than 100 years," he added in the email. "We have audited statements for more than 35 years, and we can prove the origin of every penny we have."

The Rosenthal family has not yet responded to InSight Crime's requests for comment on Yankel Rosenthal's arrest.

EFE - Tegucigalpa

The former Honduran minister Yani Rosenthal, son of the president of the Continental Group, Jaime Rosenthal, corporation charged with laundering money linked to drug trafficking by the United States, is being held in New York, confirmed Thursday the Honduran daily La Prensa.

The unofficial version of Yani Rosenthal, 50, had already been handed over to US authorities, he leaked two weeks ago, but then was not confirmed, nor denied by his brother Carlos told the Globo TV in the Honduran capital .

Yani, according to the same newspaper, which has sent a team of reporters to New York, is held in the same prison where he was sent his cousin Yankel Rosenthal (47), also a former minister who was arrested on October 6 in Miami, also accused of money laundering linked to drug trafficking.

The other member of the same family is accused by US Jaime Rosenthal (79), a renowned politician and banker, former vice president of Honduras and former presidential candidate, against whom a judge in New York ordered the arrest on 16 September.

Yani Rosenthal, number 72904-054, and Yankel, with 06410-104, are being held at the Metropolitan Correctional Center, 150 Park Row in Manhattan, New York, he told the Honduran newspaper.

The Continental Group, the three Rosenthal and counsel them, "were charged in connection with a conspiracy carried out over several years to launder proceeds from crimes of drug trafficking and bribery abroad through accounts in the United States," the indictment October from New York.

According to the prosecutor Preet Bharara, the Rosenthal "used the banking system and their businesses to launder the proceeds of narcotics trafficked into the United States."

"Thanks to the outstanding investigative work of the DEA, now these alleged criminals must face these charges in the United States," said Bharara.

In the case of Jaime Rosenthal, who has health problems, would be in San Pedro Sula, north of the country, where he lives and are most of the dozens of companies in its powerful corporation, which has collapsed after the US accusation .

The Rosenthal in October rejected the US accusations and said they will prove his innocence in court, in a case for which they hired a team of lawyers in the country's north.

TEGUCIGALPA — El ex ministro hondureño Yani Rosenthal, hijo del presidente del Grupo Continental, Jaime Rosenthal, acusados con su corporación de lavado de dinero ligado al narcotráfico por Estados Unidos, está preso en Nueva York, confirmó el jueves el diario hondureño La Prensa.

La versión extraoficial de que Yani Rosenthal, de 50 años, ya se había entregado a las autoridades de Estados Unidos, trascendió hace dos semanas, pero entonces no fue confirmada, ni desmentida por su hermano Carlos en declaraciones al Canal Globo TV en la capital hondureña.

Yani, según el mismo rotativo, que ha enviado a un equipo de reporteros a Nueva York, está recluso en la misma prisión a la que fue remitido su primo Yankel Rosenthal (47), también ex ministro, quien fue detenido el 6 de octubre en Miami, también acusado por lavado de activos ligado al tráfico de drogas.

El otro miembro de la misma familia acusado por EEUU es Jaime Rosenthal (79), un reconocido político y banquero, ex vicepresidente de Honduras y ex precandidato presidencial, contra quien una jueza de Nueva York dictó orden de captura el 16 de septiembre.

Yani Rosenthal, con el número 72904-054, y Yankel, con el 06410-104, están reclusos en el Centro Correccional Metropolitano, en el 150 Park Row de Manhattan, Nueva York, indicó el rotativo hondureño.

El Grupo Continental, los tres Rosenthal y un abogado de ellos, “fueron acusados en conexión con una conspiración realizada durante varios años para lavar ganancias provenientes de crímenes de narcotráfico y de sobornos en el exterior mediante cuentas en los Estados Unidos”, señala la acusación de octubre desde Nueva York.

Según el fiscal Preet Bharara, los Rosenthal “utilizaron el sistema bancario y sus negocios para lavar las ganancias de narcóticos traficados hacia los Estados Unidos”.

“Gracias a la destacada labor de investigación de la DEA, ahora estos presuntos criminales deben enfrentar estos cargos en los Estados Unidos”, indicó Bharara.

En el caso de Jaime Rosenthal, quien tiene problemas de salud, estaría en San Pedro Sula, norte del país, donde reside y están la mayor parte de las decenas de empresas de su poderosa corporación, que se ha derrumbado tras la acusación de Estados Unidos.

Los Rosenthal rechazaron en octubre las acusaciones de Estados Unidos y afirmaron que demostrarán su inocencia ante la justicia, en un caso para el que contrataron un equipo de abogados en el país del norte.

Arrest warrant issued against businessman Jaime Rosenthal Oliva

The authorities of the United States (US) issued an arrest warrant since September against businessman Jaime Rosenthal Oliva, who is presumed responsible for the crime of money laundering.

The arrest warrant not only issued against the renowned businessman, but also for his son Yani Rosenthal Hidalgo and his nephew Yankel Rosenthal Coello, who are in jail in New York on the same charges.

The document against Jaime Rosenthal Oliva is located in the Palace of Justice in the United States, where the authorities are asked to capture the employer.

The arrest warrants against the three family members signed Rosenthal Judge Sarah Netburn and kept, for several days, sealed and confiscated records, until a catch was executed in Miami.

The apprehension that revealed the charges against the Honduran business occurred last October 5 when Yankel Rosenthal Coello was arrested.

Two days after his arrest, the case was transferred to a court in New York in the United States, where he will be defended by a select group of practitioners.

After several actions of the government of Honduras including the forced liquidation of Banco Continental and seizures of property, he transcended the voluntary surrender of the deputy Yani Rosenthal Hidalgo.

In total secrecy, it has handled the presentation of Congressman to US authorities.

It is known that the accused is in the same prison as his cousin, Yankel Rosenthal Coello.
